From the desk of the pastor...

St. Peter was having a busy day at the Pearly Gate of Heaven due to the numerous new arrivals, most of whom were farmers and poor people. As he was about to admit them all, he saw a politician in the group.

He motioned him to step forward, then escorted him inside. As the guy entered, a marching band came to meet him complete with ticker tape and red carpet spread out. After the grand reception, St. Peter returned to the gate.

The poor people were grumbling, saying: "Even here in heaven, there's discrimination!" Overhearing the remark, St. Peter said: "My friends, there's no discrimination. We have to give the grandest welcome to that man because he is the first politician to ever enter Heaven!"

That is only a joke, of course, since there are also some upright, God-fearing politicians. In the gospel we see that the compassion of Jesus is not discriminating. His compassion did not extend only to Jairus, the synagogue official, appealing to the Lord to cure his critically-ill daughter.

As Jesus prepared to follow Jairus, He felt someone touch him. It was a woman who had been hemorrhaging for 12 years for whom the doctors could offer no relief. Instead of brushing the woman away as if to say: "Don't bother me now. Can't you see, this important man wants me to save his daughter from death?" He took time out and said gently: "Daughter, your faith has cured you. Go in peace and be free of this illness."

Through Jesus' action we are told that God in His compassion helps. He is sensitive and caring. He does not discriminate against the little people like the unnamed woman and favours the big shots like Jairus.

There is another important lesson we can learn from the gospel episodes on Jairus and the woman suffering from hemorrhage. Both had strong faith but take note: Each one took an extra effort to look for Jesus.

The woman jostled through the crowd to get near the Lord saying: "If I could only touch the tassel of His cloak, I'll get well." Jairus, likewise, went through all the trouble of seeking Jesus. Hence, the two people did MORE than just trust in the Lord.

The message is: While we should put our faith in the Lord in our undertakings, we should also do our part.

Fr. Luis

Update to Lockdown Measures

Premier Doug Ford announced that Step One of the Reopening Strategy begins at 12:01 am on Friday, June 11th, 2021 - the Solemnity of the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus.

As of Friday June 11, 2021 - these provisions will apply as follows:

- The capacity for indoor religious services, rites, and ceremonies including weddings is limited to 15% capacity of the church.
- Outdoors religious services, rites, and ceremonies including weddings are permitted with capacity limited to permit physical distancing of 2 metres.
- Drive-In religious services continue in accordance with the legislation.
- Parish halls remain closed during Step One.
- Funeral services and visitations (regulated by the Bereavement Authority of Ontario) have new restrictions starting on Friday, June 11th:
  - Indoors – Maximum of 15 percent capacity of a particular room to a maximum of 50 attendees in the entire facility
  - Outdoors – Two metres physical distancing to a maximum of 50 attendees

The health precautions pertaining to the wearing of face masks, physical distancing and handwashing/cleaning, etc. remain in effect.
