From the desk of the pastor...

Laws can be hard at times, but when we succeed in complying with their formal prescriptions, they also produce in us a feeling of fulfillment and security . . . Yet, there is more to moral life than just complying with certain legal demands. Governments may not require more than that, but God does. Our conscience does.

If we want to be in good terms with God and our conscience, we must reject the idea that He can be cheated. The letter of the Law is important, but what matters most are the values it enshrines and the internal dispositions with which we comply with its demands.

Jesus reminds us of this. With his moral teaching he shakes off the dust of accommodation and the rust of compromise. With shocking frankness he presents to his followers stern demands which leave no room for self-deception. "Unless your holiness surpasses that of the Scribes and Pharisees, you shall not enter the Kingdom of God".

Not only does he remind his audience that the Commandments are still valid, but especially he challenges them to look deeper and to go beyond the wording of the Law and reach out toward the deep core of every prescription.

Jesus poses radical demands. If we want to be his disciples, our priorities must be arranged (or re-arranged) accordingly. First things first. If anything has to be sacrificed, let it be what is secondary, rather than what is essential; what is transient, rather than what will last forever. Then we shall experience the consolations that only wise persons enjoy. We may be few, but never alone: Jesus and all the saints will be with us!

A REMINDER: Lent is a time for penance and repentance, for almsgiving and prayer, for working to change attitudes that are not pleasing to God.

- Fr. Luis
