From the Desk of the Pastor...

We insure our houses against fire, storms, flood and thieves, just as we insure our lives, buying life, health and car insurance. In the same way, let us “insure” ourselves for the one thing that most certainly will happen, namely, our meeting God to give Him an account of our lives. What really matters, at the time of our private judgement by God at the moment of our death, is how wisely we have used our blessings during our life, lovingly and generously sharing them.

This Sunday’s readings remind us that we are God’s stewards, and that God expects faithful and prudent stewardship from us. They challenge us to use our God-given talents and blessings, like wealth, wisely to attain Heavenly bliss.

A lot of people nowadays see and value only the things of this world. They regard themselves as owners not stewards. They live for this world, concentrate their attention on it, invest everything in it, give the energies of mind and body fully to it, and find in it their entire purpose for living. If you want to be a follower of Jesus, however, you should see real, eternal, spiritual values as primary and regard temporal values as secondary. True Christians regard themselves as mere stewards of God who view their resources as simply loaned to them by God. To the disciples of Jesus true riches are spiritual, God’s reward to us for loving and serving Him in our brothers and sisters. Our stewardship requires us to use our advantages to help others, to be as prudent and resourceful in acquiring goodness as the steward was in acquiring money and making his future safe. Christians must invest and give as much attention to things that concern their souls as they do to the things that concern worldly matters.

Life is too short to be preoccupied with the temporal values that are fleeting and of less importance. There is a saying that goes, “Money is an instrument that can buy everything but happiness and purchase a ticket to every place but Heaven.” Hence, brothers and sisters, prudently invest now to things that really matter, the values that can insure you to share in your Master’s joy in eternity before it is too late.
